Barry read from a letter sent to Rotary International by UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan on 4/11/2006.

“ For more than 100 years Rotary has been at the forefront of efforts to improve the lives of people around the world. And, since the United Nations was created, Rotary has been a wonderful partner to us.

You have joined forces with us in efforts for health, literacy and poverty eradication.

You have spread the word about the work of the United Nations

You have promoted peace through your exchange programs , and you have played a critical and historic role in our joint mission to eradicate polio world wide.

Rotary is living proof that people with diverse backgrounds can learn to get along with each other and concentrate more on the things that we have in common, rather than on the things that drive us apart.

That is what our humanitarian work is all about.”
